“Ion Channelopathies and Neuropsychiatric Disease”
Geoffrey S. Pitt, M.D./PhD., Ida and Theo Rossi Distinguished Professor of Medicine, Director of the Cardiovascular Institute, Weill Cornell Medicine

Abstract

Ion channel disorders, or channelopathies, lead to various diseases. Mutations in voltage-gated calcium and sodium channels, and their consequences on neuronal function and neuropsychiatric phenotypes will be discussed.

Recent Relevant Publications: